I deleted my retweet about a Canadian protestor being trampled to death because the journalist who first reported it now says it was in error. I remain deeply concerned about the abuse—seizing money & employing violence against peaceful protesters—that we're seeing in Canada. February 19, 2022

And so now our horses will stomp old ladies into the ground....

Justin Trudeau (@JustinTrudeau): Illegal blockades and occupations have threatened businesses, endangered jobs, and obstructed communities for three weeks now. This week, to restore public order and protect Canadians as the situation evolves, our government invoked the Emergencies Act.

People aren't even serious about things anymore.

Candace Owens (@RealCandaceO): STOP talking about Russia. Send American troops to Canada to deal with the tyrannical reign of Justin Trudeau Castro. He has fundamentally declared himself dictator and is waging war on innocent Canadian protesters and those who have supported them financially.

Justin Trudeau's heavy-handed crackdown against peaceful protesters in Canada is not the action of a Western Democracy, but that of an authoritarian regime like Venezuela.

Just as we provide asylum for political prisoners, we should do the same for truckers who have been subjected to violence, had their property confiscated, and their bank accounts frozen by a government that is quickly becoming the embarrassment of the free world.

I am introducing legislation that would temporarily grant asylum to innocent Canadian protesters who are being persecuted by their own government. We cannot be silent as our neighbors to the north are treated so badly.
